

Bradley C. Christ, M.D.

Dr. Bradley Christ is a fellowship-trained sports medicine surgeon who joined Olympia Orthopaedic Associates in 2016. Dr. Christ specializes in treating injuries and conditions of the ankle, hip, knee, and shoulder, as well as joint replacement, sports medicine, and trauma. With extensive training and experience in the latest sports medicine procedures, Dr. Christ is dedicated to providing individualized care to help your patients maintain their active lifestyles.

Education, Training & Affiliations

- Bachelor of Arts in Management Engineering: Claremont McKenna College, Claremont, CA
- Bachelor of Science in Bioengineering: University of California, San Diego, San Diego, CA
- Master of Engineering in Bioengineering: University of California, San Diego, San Diego, CA
- Doctor of Medicine: Keck School of Medicine of University of Southern California, Los Angeles, CA
- Orthopaedic Surgery Residency: University of California, San Francisco - Fresno, Fresno, CA
- Sports Medicine Fellowship: University of California, Los Angeles, Los Angeles, CA
- Arthroscopy Association of North America
- Biomedical Engineering Society

Dr. Christ specializes in:

- Ankle
- Hip
- Joint Replacement
- Knee
- Shoulder
- Sports Medicine
- Trauma

To refer your patients to
Dr. Christ, call (360) 709-6230.

Proudly serving professional, collegiate, and high school athletes since 1972.

www.olyortho.com
www.masongeneral.com

