

PROVIDER PROFILE

Francis Prince, ARNP

Walk-In

While obtaining her bachelor's degree at Pacific Lutheran University, Francis Prince became an Emergency Medical Technician. She knew she wanted more after this initial experience. She graduated from nursing school in 2012 and became an emergency department nurse in Olympia. She has always enjoyed helping people in their times of need and wanted to continue that work.

As an emergency department nurse, Prince obtained her Master of Science Family Nurse Practitioner degree from Simmons University School of Nursing.

Prince enjoys getting to know her patients and sharing her view on health including the use of supportive therapies such as a massage, meditation, chiropractic therapies and acupuncture. Prince prefers a collaborative relationship with her patients. She feels that working together will provide better outcomes. She enjoys bringing humor and positive energy into all patient relationships.

When not in the clinic, Prince enjoys being outdoors with her family. She and her wife and have five active children. Together, they spend time at Washington beaches and enjoy parks and trails. When they are able, they also enjoy traveling and exploring new places.
